

Over the last several months, the staff at the Wayne C. Papy Athletic Center in Seminole Heights has been raising funds to get a beautiful, new playground built on-site. This playground is planned to sit just outside their doors (FL Ave and Sligh) and would serve families of the recreation center and all Seminole Heights neighbors and residents. The Center has raised over $36,000 through fundraisers and grants and has the approval of the City as long as a fence is installed around the playground, estimated at $8,000.

This new park has been rendered and is not only beautiful, it's designed to keep our kids busy and active with features including challenging rock wall climbers, hex pod steps, a spiral slide and a tube slide. For quite some time, Seminole Heights has had a gap with it's playgrounds and this is a huge step forward. This playground would provide a safe, fun place for our kids to play while helping to increase the value of our homes and neighborhood.

This past Sunday we held a fundraiser called Family Fun Day here at The Brew Bus to raise money for the park. 30% of our sales that day went towards the cause and because of the turnout we are able to donate $1200!

In addition, their GoFundMe page has raised around $4,700 and a few neighborhood associations have privately raised funds as well. I should have the final number tomorrow.

The Brew Bus will be presenting a "Big Check" to the organization this Monday, February 20th around 6:45/7PM. Monday's are our Heights Night, meaning if you live or work in 33602, 33603, or 33604 your first house draft is on us! That's why we decided to present the check on Monday as the neighborhood will be there to celebrate.
